Organizational Strategies:

BVHA was established to create a network of voluntary organizations, health centres dispensaries and charitable hospitals to enable them and capacitate them on various health and its related issues with up dated information to improve their work performance so that they can efficiently and effectively deliberate the services in the community

BVHA's strategies can be divided into 4 Broad categories:

- Support to Civil Society Organizations(CSOs)
- Networking
- Creating Enabling Environment
- Emergency Disaster Relief Work.

(i) Support to CSOs:

Since inception, BVHA's prime work is to provide continuous support to all its network members by conducting:

Capacity building of CSO personnel: BVHA's prime focus is to capacitate the personnel involved in the organization such as senior management staff, midline project and management staff and field level staff on various public health issues, project formulation, monitoring, NGOs management etc. as per their need and requirements. BVHA's expert training team are being also hired by other organizations on request basis.

Assist in Project Proposal Formulation: As large number of CSOs are grass- root organization having very little exposure and capabilities to formulate project proposals as per present proposal development trends. So BVHA is assisting them in development of proposal. BVHA also supports them in different techniques of data gathering, data analysis and report preparation as per their need.

Development of Communication Materials (IEC): BVHA has expertise in development of various Communication Materials. As BVHA has good liaison with Govt. offices and also networking with other development actors, BVHA procures other communication materials from them as per the need of member organizations.

Knowledge and Information Dissemination: As most of the network members are from remote areas and have little access to current information about different Govt. orders / notifications related to NGO management, statutory compliances, foreign contribution, Niti Aayog etc. So as when such circulars come from concerned Govt. Dept., BVHA circulates such messages to its network organizations and also supports to them to comply on it. BVHA also publishes quarterly Newsletters covering relevant information on various statutory / legal compliances of CSOs and health and development related information, case studies of network organizations to showcase their achievements.

(ii) Networking: BVHA is a largest health network in Bihar. The main objective of Networking is to provide synergic strength to the network of CSOs working in the health & related sector to act as a united pressure group for proper implementation of health programs & policies as well as to bring positive changes at the local, district, regional & state level. In Bihar, there are 9 Divisions and hence BVHA has 9 Regional Forums for decentralizing the BVHA's activities and also respond more to the regional needs & also focusing on major health issues of state. BVHA is also part of various networks and Alliances and BVHA acts as secretariat of some of such Alliances.

(iii) Enabling Environment: Create an enabling environment is one of the very important and prominent aspect of BVHA's interventions. It has three level of interventions – Primary level, secondary level and tertiary level.

(i) Primary level: It is at the community level where BVHA works to promote preventive health measures and also to gather evidences/information for further actions. It develops community pressure groups to demand their rights and entitlements.

(ii) Secondary Level: It is at the District level where BVHA is in touch with policy implementers and produces evidences/information for better service delivery.

(iii) Tertiary level: It is at the State and National Level where BVHA tries to convince the policymakers and policy implementers related to any gaps in service delivery, supply, policy implementation, exclusion etc. Hence BVHA works more professionally way to collect and analyze evidence-based information with proper strategic thinking, skills and persistence. CSO network of BVHA helps in evidence gathering with required information.

(iv) Emergency Disaster Relief Work:

Bihar is India's most flood-prone State, with 76% of the population in the North Bihar living under the recurring threat of flood devastation. Floods in Bihar are recurring disaster which on an annual basis destroys thousands of human lives apart from livestock and assets worth millions. Hence BVHA tries to work in Disaster in 3 ways – Disaster Risk Reduction, Immediate Disaster Response and Post Disaster Rehabilitation work. BVHA does the relief works directly or with support of BVHA's network organizations

Implementation Strategy of BVHA Programs:

BVHA Generally implement its projects / programs mainly through 2 ways – Direct Intervention and another is through Network Organizations.

Direct Interventions:

In this, BVHA directly implements program / project activities through its own personnel.

Indirect Interventions:

As BVHA is network organization, hence BVHA tries to implement most of its projects through its network organizations. A proper contract is done with the concerned partner organizations as per the project deliverables. BVHA provides rigorous training to the project team members of the project partner organizations on subject issues and project cycle, handhold support to the project team at project areas, regular review of the project to gauge the progress and also do the corrective measures as per the monitoring findings of BVHA.

Monitoring and Evaluation:

In both the implementation processes, BVHA management team do the regular periodic monitoring and evaluation work to make the project successful. Time to time 3rd party evaluation is also done wherever required.

Liaison with Govt. Departments and Other Agencies:

It is an integral part of most of the project/program interventions. From the beginning of any project/program, BVHA tries to make a good liaison with Govt. stakeholders and other similar agencies for time to time progress sharing and also on the identified gaps and challenges for drawing their attentions as well as ensuring their support. BVHA also capacitates its member / partner organizations to establish better liaison with Govt. stakeholders.

Community as First Priority:

For any project/program interventions, focus has given to most neglected and marginalized communities for their better access of their rights and entitlements. Strengthening the Community based institutions like SHGs, Panchayati Raj, youth club/groups, mothers groups, school management committees, Child Protection Committees etc. are one of the important component under community mobilization.
